The facts, so it would be only because the z lof the churchman it would be only because the z lof the churchman it would be only because the z lof the churchman it would be only because the z lof the churchman perture, as the S de Department bas as yet given has swallowed up the laberty of the patriot, and the Bi h p Spalding has stated. We join issue with him here on the facts them elves. It is true, as the schools. They have also, as appears from their re-ports, a school at Portland, one at Shippingsport, ports, a school at Portland, one at Shippingsport, and one on High street. It is also true that Mrs. McDevitl, wire of the Rev. John McDevitl, is am played as a teacher in this Sixth street school, but on precisely the same conditions, and with precisely the same conditions with one of the Sat bath Schools the same of a journey to Vienua until he is cermed with the interfere with the city school. This should be same of the same buildings with one specially desired. She was expanised as other teachers, tourd qualified, and so employed. So much is all destitute, and certainly very harmless truth to any or common disposed to make harm out of it. But it is not true that the Bev. John McDevitt has ever teen employed by the Transeeras the "general superintenders" of this chool, or in any other capacity. Note it true, as the Beshop compensation from them for any services rendered by him. Note it true, as the Bishop charges (so far as we have been able to learn from his official reports to his own society, which we have been early not been able to learn from his official reports to his own society, which we have carefully read), that he has ever represented himself as being employed three thrugh together which are satirely distinct. Now we have never seen it.

Now the truth is, Bishop Spalding has confounded three thrugh together which are satirely distinct. Now he truth is, Bishop Spalding has confounded three thrugh together which are satirely distinct. Now he truth is an active that many three flouristing Sabbath schools, of which, as may be seen from his reports, he is the general superinter can be first three flouristing Sabbath schools, of which, as may be seen from his reports, he is the general superinter dent. meet a straining a second of the second of t Moreover he complains of our public schools be adults have been taught. Besides these Sabbath schools be has also succeeded, through the cooperation of our liberal and benevolent ladies, in forming an industrial or evening ichool for girls, superintended by the ladies themselves, in which they are taught, among ther us ful lessons, that "cleanliness is a virtue," just as he reports to his society and as likely Spalding has enceringly stated. In the mean time, has wife opened a day school for little children, more begitners, in the same building the superintended by the ladies themselves, is which they are taught, among ther us ful lessons, that "cleanliness is a virtue," just as he reports to his society and as likely spalding has enceringly stated. In the mean time, has wife opened a day school for little children, more begitners, in the same building rst separate from them. This day school continuboard of trustees, was accepted, and so transferred to from both causes. But the 'rue criterion of cost is to take the whole over pe of at the rehoods to under the same requirements with every other teacher. The people pay not fer the rehools toteacher. The report of 1857 states that the "board had board to the report of 1857 states that the tender. The sthe report of 1857 states that the "bearder that and every tax payer has the provide a state that the "beard had located or rather adopted a school on Sixth street." New of these Sabbath schools and of this industrial school, Mr. McDevitt has apoken of this industrial school, Mr. McDevitt has apoken to the day school also, and has spoken with a warmath of feeling which the lishop would consider bitterly sectarian. Be it so. We do not mad one word, bitter or otherwise, which goes to show that this Sixth the set day school, lambel to Mr. McDevit and memeral and collegate, may be had by ever child in street day school, laught by Mrs. McDevitt, and mow emperiesemted by the board of trusteen, is a threaty, both male and jenule, at a cost of $11 per bitter sectarian school.

With what wort of pastice then can Bishop Spald- enormous?" We should like to see them devise ing hold up our School Trustees to public opposition for even double that amount. We know that bring, for what Mr. Mclevitt and bis co-laborers cation for even double that amount. We know that The whole of the State has not yet from officially. There is a member of the state has to the state has th among our citizens may see fit to do in Sabbath or now it costs these who attempt it at other schools, are industrial schools, supported either by missionary

But we are persuaded that no tax payer will think contributions of their own private funds? It is a matter with which the Trustees have no more connection or responsibility than with his own Catholic nection or responsibility than with his own Catholic nection of the Sixth street day school, and in that Mrs. McDevitt is responsible to them. But does be mean to assert that this day echool is now, or has been at any time since it was adopted by the Board, a "bitterly sectarian school?" This is more than he will be able to prove by any facts known to as. We are perfectly willing to let the facts speak for themselves. And hence we have given a brief, yet full and accurate history of the whole matter from the beginging. We have thought that the best answer we could give, and the only one we need to give to such charges, was just to state the facts of the case of the right of way on the Meurphin branch to distinguish the contending factions.

This he will again do when the regular Congress are they have come to our knowledge, and at her will be meeting of the several Presidents of the Central American States will meet in Gustermala in a strikingly as anything we have seen. Here was a class of children, mainly of Catholic parents, growning up in utter ignorance and vice—no one caring for them no one educating them—both the l'riest at their them—both the l'riest at their them—both the l'riest at their wetchedness—takes them up—washes and dresses them—induces them to come to school—forms them into classes—teaches them the first elements of knowledge, and at last offers the school thas created to the city. The city, by its Board of Trustress, adopts the bitherito orphaned one as its own child; takes it into the public family, and, following the very example of Pharaoh's daughter la the case of Masses, appoint the very woman who had been a mother to them before, to be their teacher etill, naying: "Take these children and train them for me, and I will give the they wagen." And now, when all men should have only rejoiced at the deed, and cried. "Well done, good and faithful mervant—this is the very thing our city and country need—the education of the poor;" to a constraint of the poor;" the sum of the property thing we want—the very thing our city and country need—the education of the poor;" this is the very thing we want—the very thing our city and country need—the education of the poor;" instead of this, the whole transaction is misrepresented, caricatured, and held up to the world as a nice point between the two average at a nice point between the two average at it is piece of tyranny and fightetic, and that by the very parties who had claimed the manger as their own.

But this is not all. Bishop Spalding choses that last grave count in his indictment with the following passage about the Board of Trustees: "The School Trustees bowever exhibit some adroitness in school Trustees however exhibit some advoltness in concessing the precise amount of the school money which it thus upon for the promotion of undiaguised actarianism. Besides the salary of $500 paid to Mrs. McLevitt, we are left to guess at the remaining amount of expenditure on this sectarian school. We are merely informed in the report that the expense of the Sixth street school are included in those of the Fifth Ward. However much we may admire the discretion of the Trustees in the matter, the public would like to know the precise expenditure of the trustees in the matter of the money of the trustees in the matter, the public would like to know the precise expenditure of the like would like to know the precise expenditure of the like would like to know the precise expenditure of the like would be added to the contrary. Ag there is no first This is indeed a serious charge, to be made in this way against our public officers, who have thus far learn regarded as men of an improached integrity. And on what ground is it made? The Bishop says, from their own published report, and he seems to give their very words: "We are informed in the report that the expenses of the Sixth street school are included in those of the Bifth ward." And in this descret way, according to him, the shameful luminous is covered up and concealed from public ciview. Now we have read over the only reports to which he can refer—namely, those of Bift and 1868—and we are constrained to say that never have we seen a more shender foundation for no grays a charge, in the report of 1857 and is attacked that the expenses of this Sixth street school "are charged to the bifth ward!" She declared her intention to commit suicide to several persons during the evening, and had gone to far us to give a way her few effects to different parties, when intelligence of the death of Itilion was brought to her. She then said "good bye" to those who were about her, and went away. This morning at daybreak ther body was found floating in a dock, in the Delaware, between Loubard and South streets.

Dillon we cust to have been bent upon unlachief at the time he met his death, and the sacribic of his life probably prevented the commission of a serious crime. He had a black-jack slung to his wrist at the time he was extricated from the chimney flue. Matters have been somewhat complicated by the arrest of a man named William Berry, who was laken incustody last night, on the charge of having thrown the woman overloand. The hands on a vessel declare they heard Berry threaten the woman before they heard her fall into the river. Berry was held for a further hearing.
